Deconstructing Comics

is a podcast by and for comics creators — especially those who haven't hit their creative stride yet.

Whether you've got a comic going and you're trying to promote it, or you haven't even started yet and need some help getting rolling, we hope you'll listen for inspiration and tips.

Based in Tokyo, Deconstructing Comics talks not only about what comics we read, but about how comics work. The show takes an international view of comics, looking at Wednesday's stack alongside newspaper strips, undergrounds, Web comics, manga, European comics, and more. Show content includes interviews, reviews, and topic discussions.

Working on your own comic? Want some feedback? Send it to mail@deconstructingcomics.com and we'll critique it on the show!
